Open Access Policy

Scottish Archives supports Green Open Access. Authors may publish the Accepted Manuscript (AM) version (the author's version of the article that has been accepted for publication) on their personal or departmental web page or their institutional repository. Content and layout must follow Scottish Archives - Author Requirements and Style Guide. This version may have been revised following peer review but may be subject to further editorial input before publication in the journal. Any posting of the AM version should include a prominent statement that the article has been accepted for publication by Scottish Archives together with a link to the Scottish Archives – volume contents page on the Scottish Records Association website. The Version of Record (VoR) (the definitive version of the article as published in Scottish Archives) may not be deposited by authors in institutional repositories. The VoR will be freely available to non-subscribers on the Scottish Records Association website one year after publication.
